THE WESTFIELD MANUAL.

VOLUME ONE. 1903-1904. ISSUED ANNUALLY.

This is the first number of THE WESTFIELD MANUAL. An examination of the index will reveal the scope of the work. It is believed that there is a call for a Manual, for such a book is of the greatest use and interest in a community of the size, activity and public spirit of Westfield, where the citizens so generally participate in town affairs, and are so generally identified with town interests and institutions. It is designed to be of service, not only as a work to which to refer for special information and statistics, but in giving such of the townspeople as may read it, a wider knowledge of the community life. It will make them more familiar with the names and work of those connected with the local government and various organizations of the town. It is even hoped that this may prove a stimulus to activity in the direction of all local improvement. Record will be made in THE MANUAL from year to year of the progress of Westfield in its various relations. The town has numerous advantages, in the way of location, roads, schools, churches and quality of citizenship, all essential to a community of homes; and has, also, live business interests with an increasingly bright outlook.

The newer residents will find THE MANUAL an invaluable aid in becoming familiar with the various local institutions and organizations of the town. The annual issues of THE MANUAL will insure a permanent record of the progress of Westfield and its interests, thus possessing historical value.

The information contained in THE MANUAL covers a variety of subjects, including matters social, political, religious, charitable, literary, athletic, fraternal, educational and business. Every effort has been made to set forth the information accurately and completely; and, wherever possible, it has been obtained from official sources. It may safely be relied upon as authoritative.

A directory containing names, street addresses and telephone nnmbers of the residents of Westfield, has been added to THE MANUAL, which will of itself be invaluable for ready reference.

The publishers will be pleased to receive such suggestions in the way of correction or improvement as any person may care to offer.

LLOYD THOMPSON.
FREDERICK S. TAGGART.

NOTE.—The Westfield MANUAL will hereafter be issued on June 1st of each year. The newly elected local government goes into office on May 1st in each year, and will have appointed all the appointive officers by June 1st. Owing to the lateness of the first election and the consequent delay of appointments this year, together with the labor involved in compiling this work, THE MANUAL appears as of November 15th, 1903.

The Incorporation of Westfield.

The history of the movement for the incorporation of Westfield dates back to 1900. In 1899 the Township of Summit had passed through the storm and turmoil incident to such an undertaking, and had emerged a city, by Act of the Legislature. (Chapter 13, Law 1899). Prominent citizens of Summit, with the aid of the press, had made a valiant fight for advancement, and finally took the question to Trenton, where victory was secured. In 1900 the local conditions in Westfield were such as to make necessary a more progressive scheme of government than that of the Township. The movement for incorporation was first discussed at a meeting of the Westfield Sound Money Club, an outgrowth of the Presidential campaign of 1900. On Saturday, November 17, 1900, the Sound Money Club was disbanded, and steps taken to organize another, to be called the Good Government Club. This was done and the club was formed with the following officers: J. B. Wilson, President; George B. Dickerson, 1st Vice-President; William G. De Lamater, 2d Vice-President; E. B. Burritt, Treasurer; Frank S. Smith, Secretary. Ira C. Lambert, Frank S. Smith and J. A. Dennis were appointed a committee from the Club to visit Summit and ascertain how it prospered as a city. A public meeting was called and held December 14th, in the Westfield Club Hall. The subject of incorporating as a city was further discussed, and the committee to visit Summit reported their investigation showing great satisfaction there with the change. The meeting finally decided to hold an unofficial election, with a view to obtaining the wish of the people, before any bill should be drawn and submitted to the Legislature. On February 8, 1901, the then Township Committee (Martin Welles, J. A. Dennis and W. W. Connoly), passed a resolution unanimously recommending the incorporation of the Township as a city, under Chapter 52 of the Laws of 1899. On February 16, of that year a special unofficial election was held. Of the 1,043 registered voters in the Township, but 495 cast their ballot. Of this number 102 favored City government, and 393 opposed it. Thus ingloriously ended the City movement of 1900.

The conditions of 1900 became worse, until 1903 found them almost beyond endurance. The Township was rapidly growing, yet the governing body was hampered and hindered by laws intended for rural communities. The Township Committee was small in number (3), and the work was great. These things forced the people to solve the problem of bettering conditions.

In July, 1902, The Union County Standard, acting with Mr. J. A. Dennis, sent out 500 return postal cards, requesting an opinion upon the advisability of incorporating as a city. They claimed (and as events show) rightly, that the question was NOT dead. About sixty replies were received, and published in the columns of the Standard. Believing that the people were entitled to know some of the provisions of the law under which incorporation was proposed, and, at the request of the Editor of the Standard, Mr. Frederick S. Taggart wrote a number of articles advocating the proposed change and showing the advantages thereof. These are now a matter of record.

Movements such as this must have organized effort. To secure an organized backing for the project seemed the first step. Mr. Taggart suggested to Mr. Dennis that a meeting of the Board of Trade be called. The meeting of the Board of Trade was held Monday evening, December, 22, 1902, at the Township Rooms. The meeting was quasi-public, and all who wished took part inthe discussion. About forty persons were present at the meeting. After considerable discussion the Chairman was instructed to appoint a Committee of seven to consider the comparative merits of Township, Borough and City Government, and report back to a public meeting within four weeks. The Chairman appointed A. L. Russell, Chairman; Arthur N. Pierson, L. A. Lightfoot, Theodore S. Class, Eugene Hanford, Ira C. Lambert and Frederick S. Taggart, Sectetary. After a month's hard work and investigation the Committee prepared its report and had it printed at length in the Standard of January 23d and the Leader of January 28th, so that the entire community might have full opportunity of considering the report before the meeting, which was held in Westfield Club Hall January 29th. The night was bad for a public meeting, a cold rain deterring many from coming to the meeting. About 100 persons were present, however, and all wanted to be heard. William E. Tuttle, Jr., was elected Chairman and Charles H. Denman Secretary. The report of the Committee, as published, was read.

To eliminate useless questions from the discussion, it was moved, "That it be the sense of this meeting that the present Township Government is inadequate for our needs." The motion was unanimously carried. It was then moved, "That the Borough form of government be considered insufficient for our needs." This motion was also carried by a large majority. It might be parenthetically remarked that but one member of the Committee favored a Borough form of government. The rest of the Committee were solid for a city.

The real question, that of the City, then came up for discussion. Into this discussion was introduced an argument for the Town form of government. This proposition was advocated by Martin Welles, C. N. Codding, A. L. Alpers and others. This proposition had not been before the Committee, was new to many present at the meeting and little consideration had been given it before. The issue then became joined between Town and City. In the discussion it was easy to see that the Town was more generally favored, (1) because under the Town the schools would still be independent, while in a city they would be a part of the municipal system, and (2) because of the dread which some had of the name "City," it foreboding greater opportunity for misgovernment. Upon the final vote, the City met its end by a vote of 42 to 7. It fell in a good cause, however, for from its ruins was to spring the Town, a substantial gain—a reality. The Chairman of the meeting was instructed to appoint a committee of five, which committee, with the Chairman of the meeting, "should have power to do all things necessary to secure the incorporation of the Town." A few days later the Chairman appointed the committee, which organized as follows: Charles N. Codding, Chairman, Alfred L. Russell, J. A. Dennis, Paul Q. Oliver, Wm. E. Tuttle, Jr., ex officio, and Frederick S. Taggart, Secretary. After consideration, the Committee determined upon a special act of the Legislature as the means of securing incorporation. The necessary legal notices were published and the bill (known as Senate Bill No. 148), was drafted and introduced by Senator Cross on Monday, February 16, 1903. The Standard of February 20, 1903, contained a public notice, signed by the Committee, stating the objects of the bill, and giving the date of the hearing at Trenton (February 24, 1903). A copy of the bill was also printed. (See page 6.) Secret opposition to the bill itself, and open opposition to the bill without a reference to the people, began to develop. Certain county officials, who considered themselves politically imperiled by Westfield's incorporation, began a vigorous lobby against the bill. However, as in the case of the Summit bill, some opposition was withdrawn, and, notwithstanding the remaining opposition, the bill became a law. A large delegation appeared before the Senate Committee on Towns and Boroughs (Senators Hand, Wakelee and Gebhardt). Mr. Codding, Chairman of the Committee, argued for the bill, while Mr. James O. Clark and Arthur N. Pierson asked for a referendum in the bill. A petition asking for the passage of the bill without referendum, signed by over 200 residents and representing over $500,000 of the $2.000,000 assessed valuation of the Township, was presented to the Committee. The bill was passed in the Senate on March 2d and sent to the House, where it was referred to the Committee on Towns and Townships. The bill passed the House on March 4th, the rules were suspended, and it was returned to the Senate and signed by the Governor at 2 o'clock of that day. Thus Westfield became a town byv irtue of the provisions of the act now known as Chapter 14 of the Laws of 1903.

FREDERICK S. TAGGART.

Chapter 14 of the Laws of 1903.

A Brief History of Westfield.

It is impossible to give here more than the barest outline of Westfield's history. Search for authoratitive information on the subject reveals some conflict of recorded statements, and shows much of what has been written to be involved in doubt, and to be matters of tradition and hearsay. The latter is especially true of Westfield's so called Revolutionary experience.

To make the necessary investigation of the various data and volumes which should be examined in order to present an adequate and reliable history of Westfield would require more time than the due publication of this first issue of THE WESTFIELD MANUAL will permit ; but it is expected that the work will be taken up and published more fully in a future number of the MANUAL, or in a separate volume.

Westfield's history as a distinct government does not begin until January 27, 1794, on which date the Legislature of New Jersey passed an act setting off a certain described territory, then being a part of the township of Elizabethtown, as a separate township to be known as the township of Westfield. The boundaries of the territory thus set apart are as follows :

"Beginning at the line of the County of Middlesex, where the north and west branches of Rahway river meet and form a junction ; from thence running up the north branch of Rahway river to the mouth of Nomahiggins branch, it being the southeast corner of the township of Springfield : thence running with the line of Springfield aforesaid in a course north forty-nine degrees, west to the top of the mountain ; thence on the course to the east branch of Green Brook ; thence down said branch and Green Brook to the line that divides the counties of Essex and Middlesex ; thence along the line of Middlesex to the place of beginning."

There is in the town safe to.day the original copy of this description, constituting a portion of the minutes of the first township meeting, in the handwriting of David Osborn, the first clerk of the township. The town has the complete records of town meetings from the date of its incorporation as a township. The oldest ones are in a fair state of preservation, though yellow with age, and the writing thin and fading. Westfield was originally a part of Essex County, but in 1857 a portion of the County, including Westfield, was set off and called the County of Union. The township was in its one hundred and tenth year when, last Spring, (1903) it was incorporated as a town. The centennial of the township was celebrated in 1894 with a large public banquet on January 27th, and various appropriate exercises, parades and functions on July 4th and the few days preceding.

It is interesting to note the beginnings of the local governments as set forth in a "History of Union County:"

"For a period of one hundred and twenty-eight years from the date of the original settlement the township (Elizabeth Town) remained undivided, the town laws and regulations extending over the whole area. At an early date, however, various hamlets and clusters of farm houses gradually sprung up in different localities. The facilities for navigation and the attractions of water privileges drew quite a number of early settlers to the banks of the Rahway river Another group of planters, mostly of one family, gave name to the neighborhood called Lyons Farms. Still another, locating a few miles to the west, gave name to Wade's Farms. Soon after, a little to the north of west, just under the mountains, a few neighbors called their settlement Springfield. Seven miles to the west of the town proper Westfield began to attract settlers quite early in the eighteenth century. Two or three miles stillwest of this settlement were the Scotch Plains, where a large part of the Scotch emigration of 1684-6 found a home on the eastern side of Green Brook; while at a later period, on the same side of the brook, two or three miles lower down, a few scattered habitations served as the nucleus of Plainfield, sixteen miles from the town proper, and yet within the township. Four or five miles over the mountains to the northwest of Westfiled the beautiful valley of the upper Passaic very early drew from the other parts of the town a considerable number of hardy pioneers, to whose settlement was originally given the name of Turkey, afterward changed to New Providence.

In the administration of the township laws the several parts of the neighborhood were denominated "wards," as Rahway ward, Westfield ward, and so on. In the selection of civil officers for the town,—aldermen, councilmen, town committee, constables, overseers of the poor, surveyors and overseers of highways, assessors, collectors, pound keepers, as well as sheriff, coroner, marshall,—due regard was had to the claims of these several wards. As the population increased and churches and school houses were built, these respective settlements began to feel the inconvenience of living so remote from the central authority, the seat of government in the town proper, and of being compelled to travel so far to the town meetings. Hence, one after another they began to agitate the question of subdivision of the township, so as to give each of these localities a township of its own. Thus originated the townships, one after another, taking their legal places on the following dates: Springfield, 1793; New Providence, 1794; Westfield, 1794; Rahway, 1804; Plainfield, 1847. The remaining townships were subdivisions of these at later dates."

Westfield's growth during its early history was naturally slow but steady. Her population was but a few hundred and the occupation mainly farming, with a few mechanics and tradesmen. The town meetings were held once a year, and the elections covered a period of three or four days. The latter were held at the residences of the different citizens, and each town meeting decided where the next year's election should be held. From the minutes of these town meetings we learn that each year, for a considerable period, "the poor were sold at auction, as usual." It was not until facilities of communication and travel began to be generally improved that Westfield's progress became appreciable. With the advent of these, her natural advantages and the disposition of her citizens to respond conservatively but effectively to the demands of the day insured her rapid development and has resulted in the increase of her population almost fifty per cent. in the last decade. Foremost of her institutions, the churches and schools have been liberally and loyally supported and to-day a diploma from the Westfield High School admits the holder to most of the colleges of the land. and has been accepted by the University of the State of New York, an exacting institution, in lieu of the preliminary academic examinations required of those intending to study for the professions.

The steps by which Westfield has reached her present status as a commnnity will be treated more in detail in the near future.

The Clerk shall, upon certificate from the Chairman of the Road, Sewer & Water Committee, that the obstructions have been removed, and streets, curbs and sidewalks left in good order, return to the holder of the permit his or their deposit, or such portions of same as may be due him or them after all just deductions have been made; provided, however, the provisions of this section shall not apply to merchants of the Town in displaying their merchandise, if such display is made within four feet of the property line.

Section 5. That no person or persons shall, under a penalty of $20.00, obstruct or encumber any street in the Town of Westfield with the moving of any shed or building upon skids, slides or timbers, without first having obtained a permit from the Clerk of the Town of Westfield, and having made a deposit of $100.00 with said clerk, which shall serve as security for the faithful and diligent prosecution of the work of moving said shed or building through and along the streets of the Town, and to liquidate all damages done to property, and it is understood that the permit shall not carry the right or privilege to cut or mutilate any tree along the streets. Said permit shall describe the shed or building to be moved and the time for which the permit shall run, and if at the expiration of the time named in the permit the work is not completed the Council of the Town of Westfield may renew said permit, or order the Chairman of the Road, Sewer & Water Committee to renew said permit, if in his discretion it is proper and best for the best interest of the Town to do so. If, however, the permit is not renewed, a penalty of $3.00 a day shall be charged as damages for the encumbering of the streets until such time as the building has been moved from the streets of the Town, and this amount and all damages shall be charged to the holder of said permit and deducted from the the deposit above described. If at any time during the progress of the work of moving said shed or building the work shall stop for twenty-four hours, the Chairman of the Road, Sewer & Water Committee may at the expiration of twenty-four hours after mailing a notice to the holder of the permit, employ such labor and means as he may deem best to move said shed or building so as to permit the free use of the street to the public, charging all costs for doing same to the holder of the permit and deducting said costs from the deposit above described. If at any time during the progress of the work of moving said shed or building, the said shed or building will have to pass any hydrant or street intersection, it shall be deemed as a part of the agreement between the Town of Westfield and the party or parties obtaining the permit that said shed or building shall not, under a penalty of twenty dollars, rest or remain stationary when the said shed or building or any portion of same is within twenty-five feet of any hydrant or street intersection. Should the holder of the permit allow any timber, blocking or other tools or anything whatsover to unnecessarily encumber the streets of the Town, then the Chairman of the said Road, Sewer & Water Committee may have same removed and charge the cost of storing said material against the holder of the permit and deduct said cost from the deposit above described.

If at any time after the expiration of the time allowed by said permit, the Chairman of the Road, Sewer and Water Committee shall certify that the shed or building has been moved with due care and without harm or interference to person or property, the Town Clerk shall return to the holder of the permit the deposit or such portion of same as shall be due after all just deductions have been made.

Section 6. That no person or persons, company or corporation, shall dig up or cause to be dug up any street or portion of street in the Town of Westfield for the purpose of laying any water, gas, electric or drainage main or lateral pipe or conduit, without first having obtained a permit from the Clerk of the Town of Westfield, and having deposited with said clerk the sum of $25.00 for each three hundred feet of street to be opened, which shall serve as security for the replacing of the street, curb, cross walk or sidewalk to their former condition, and no street shall be opened to a greater length than three hundred feet at one time unless by special permission from the Chairman of the Road, Sewer & Water Committee, and proper lights, barriers, and guards shall be placed along said opening, both day and night, to prevent accidents or injury to the public. The trench shall be refilled in layers of six inches and each layer thoroughly tamped. When the trench has been filled within one foot of the surface the ditch shall be thoroughly puddled to settle same, and when thus thoroughly settled, the street shall be resurfaced and left in as good condition as before the work was commenced, and if at any time within six months after the work is completed, the ditch shall have settled so as to leave a depression in the street, the parties holding the permit, shall, within twenty-four hours after notice make the necessary repairs ordered by the Overseer of Roads, and if the work has not been done in twenty-four hours after notice has been sent, the overseer of roads may employ such means and purchase such material as will replace the street in good condition as before the ditch was opened, and charge the expense and cost for doing same to the holder of the permit and deduct said cost from the deposit above described, and at the expiration of six months, as above described, the Clerk shall upon certificate from the Overseer of Roads return to holder of the permit his or their deposit or such portion of same as shall remain due, after all just deductions have been made as above defined. Any person, persons or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $20.00.

Section 7. No person or persons, company or corporation shall dig up or cause to be dug up any portion of any streets of the Town of Westfield for the purpose of laying any service connection from any water, gas, electric or drainage main or conduit without first having obtained a permit from the Clerk of the Town of Westfield, and having deposited the sum of $5.00 which shall serve as security to the Town of Westfield for the replacing of the streets, curbs, sidewalks and appurtenances to their former condition; the ditches must be opened and refilled the same day if possible, and the dirt must be refilled in all ditches in layers of six inches, and each layer thoroughly and carefully rammed, and when the filling has reached a point within ten inches of the surface the ditch must be thoroughly settled by puddling, after which the ditch must be refilled, leaving the surface of the street, sidewalk and curb in the same condition as before the work was commenced. The deposit above referred to shall be retained for three months, and if in the meantime the ditch has settled, leaving a depression, the overseer of roads may have said depression filled and the road and sidewalk restored to its original condition and charge the expense of doing same against the holder of the permit and deduct such expenses from the deposit above referred to, and, at the expiration of three months, and upon certificate of the Overseer of Roads, the deposit or such portion of same as may remain, after all just deductions, shall be returned to the holder of said permit. Any person, persons or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $5.00.

The Clerk may on deposit of $10 00, which shall serve as security for any damages to curb or sidewalk, issue a temporary permit for the passage of vehicles over or across any curb or any sidewalk for the carrying of building material or material for the improvement of the property abutting on a street at any given point, but such permit shall not in any case be permanent, and at the expiration of the time of the permit the Clerk shall return to the permit holder the deposit or such part of it as may remain after making necessary repairs, if any, to the curb or sidewalk, on certificate of the Chairman of the Sidewalk, Curbs and Street Lighting Committee that the curb and sidewalks are in good condition.

That no person, company or corporation shall hereafter without first having obtained a written permit from the Council build or construct or cause to be built or constructed any bridge or culvert in or across any gutter in any street in the Town of Westfield, under a penalty of $5.00; and, if the maintenance of any such bridge or culvert built under such permit or any bridge or culvert now existing shall be deemed by the Council to be a detriment to the street, the Council may order the owner of the property in front of which it shall be to do away with the obstruction or encroachment made by the said bridge or culvert within ten days, and if the owner fails to comply with the order he shall be subject to a penalty of $10 00, and the obstruction may be removed by the Council at said owner's expense.
